

Mutamaiyu House is on Mugie Ranch, a forty-nine thousand acre working ranch that rolls out across the Laikipia plains on the edge of the Great Rift Valley situated at the northern end of the Laikipia plateau.

These rugged plains and lush woodlands are home to the richest diversity of wildlife, including the 'Big Five'. Mugie is situated 293 km north of Nairobi, Kenya's capital city where Jomo Kenyatta International Airport has daily flights to destinations across Europe.

Mutamaiyu House was described by a recent visitor as "Heaven on a Hill", Mutamaiyu is a magnificent family owned house built in a grove of ancient, twisting olive trees.

Mutamaiyu House accommodation and facilities include; four beautifully appointed cottages ensure peace and privacy for visitors. Each cottage sleeps two and all have en-suite bathrooms. The dining room, sitting room and verandah are contained in the main house where collections of books, art and music are available for guests to enjoy.

Mutamaiyu House has a beautiful heated swimming pool, where a buffet lunch is often served. Mutamaiyu House is hosted By: Helena Mortensen, who has been brought up in Kenya and has studied Hospitality and Tourism Management, and a team of experienced chefs, house-keepers and safari guides host guests at Mutamaiyu House for Nicky and Gaby Hahn who own Mugie Ranch.
