

Galdessa Camp is located along the Galana River under the fringed doum palms and overlooks the Yatta Plateau the world's longest and oldest fossilized lava flow. The camp can be accessed by road it takes approximately 3 ½ hours from Mombasa and 4 ½ hours from Nairobi.

The Camp has 11 comfortable and spacious thatched and semi-tented bungalows on wooden floors, each with an en-suite bathroom and private verandah. Guest are ensured of privacy as all the bungalows are situated a good distance apart and natural foliage is used to subtly conceal neighboring bandas. The bathrooms are large and have traditional bucket showers, flush toilets and basins with running water.
